

Warren C. Breidenbach III

Curriculum vitae

American Hand Surgeon.

Professor and Chief of the Division of Reconstructive and Plastic Surgery, University of Arizona Medical Centre

World leader in hand and composite tissue allotransplantation (CTA).

Performed the first long-term successful Hand Transplant surgery in the world at Louisville Jewish Hospital, Louisville, Kentucky.

Has performed more hand transplants than any other surgeon in the world.

Education:

Graduated from the University of Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

Postgraduate training in plastic surgery at McGill University, Montreal.

Completed a microsurgery fellowship with the Eastern Virginia Medical School in Norfolk.

Christine M. Kleinert Hand Fellow at the University of Louisville.

Achievements:

Appointed the first Hand Scholar with the Christine M. Kleinert Institute for Hand and Microsurgery.

His work on vascularized nerve grafts received the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery Clinical Research Scholarship Award.

Received the Senior Award of the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery for his work in blood flow to nerves.

Served as president of the International Hand and Composite Tissue Allotransplantation Society.

Founding President of the American Society of Reconstructive Transplant.

Served on several committees of the American Society for Surgery of the Hand.

Secretary of the American Society for Peripheral Nerve surgery.

Has received numerous awards and honours and has published more than 80 papers and publications.